Prostor/Venue: Predavalnica 1 (Room 1)¹

Dokumentarni film, ki orje ledino! Šestdeset let razvoja Mednarodnih odnosov v Sloveniji skozi perspektivo poučevanja in raziskovanja discipline na Fakulteti za družbene vede, prikazanih kot še nikoli doslej. Najmlajša generacija študentk in študentov Mednarodnih odnosov v pogovorih s ključnimi zgodovinskimi osebnostmi, ki so razvijali disciplino ter opazovalci tega razvoja. Zgodbe o začetkih, boju za akademsko neodvisnost, prizadevanjih za mednarodno vplivnost.

A documentary that breaks the ground! Sixty years of development of International Relations in Slovenia through the perspective of teaching and researching the discipline at the Faculty of Social Sciences presented like never before. The youngest generation of International Relations students in conversations with key historical figures who took part in the development of the discipline, and observers of this development. Stories of beginnings, the struggle for academic independence, the pursuit of international influence.

Kako razumemo (gre razumeti) položaj študentov in njihovo vlogo v disciplini ter praksi mednarodnih odnosov v Sloveniji? Smo emancipatorni akterji, ki spreminjajo polje? Smo pasivni akterji, ki privzeto »znanje« le udejanjajo v prakso? Kako oblikujemo in spreminjamo agendo študijskega in obštudijskega življenja?

How to understand (how are we to understand) students' position and role in the discipline and practice of international relations in Slovenia? Are we emancipatory actors, who change the field? Are we passive actors, who only enact the acquired »knowledge« into practice? How do we shape and change the agenda of our live as students inside and outside the lecture rooms?

Ogrevalni dogodek konference / Warming-up event of the conference

Priložnosti in čeri sodobnega mednarodnega poslovanja / Opportunities and Threats in Contemporary International Business (v slovenščini / in Slovenian)

Datum in lokacija: četrtek, 7. oktober 2021, 17:00–19:00, velika dvorana FDV in spletna izvedba (zoom povezava: <https://uni-lj-si.zoom.us/j/98962897784>)

Ideje in ambicije za poslovno kariero se med študentkami in študenti mednarodnih odnosov v njihovih zgodnjih načrtih med dodiplomskim študijem pojavljajo relativno redko. Dobro znanje tujih jezikov, razumevanje mednarodnega poslovnega okolja ter sposobnost zaznavanja sprememb in tveganj globalnega delovanja jih po diplomi pogosto vodijo v delo v mednarodnem poslovanju. Učenje na podlagi primerov je eden ključnih pristopov ne le v mednarodnem poslovanju, temveč tudi v mednarodnih odnosih nasploh.

Naši nekdanji študenti se redno vračajo v učilnice v okviru seminarjev pri Politiki mednarodnega poslovanja ter prenašajo svoje bogato znanje in izkušnje na nove generacije. V zadnjih letih nam je uspelo ujeti nekaj njihovih uspešnih, poučnih in navdihujočih zgodb tudi v video primerih, ki smo jih izmenjali z drugimi mednarodnimi programi po vsem svetu v okviru projekta Erasmus+ digitalne knjižnice video primerov mednarodnega poslovanja (VCL4IB), imenovane »MNC Whispering«.

Na okrogli mizi, na kateri nas bo pozdravil prof. dr. Zlatko Šabič, programski vodja konference, bomo razpravljali o najnovejših tveganjih in priložnostih v hitro spreminjajočem se mednarodnem poslovnem okolju po pandemiji Covid-19, pa tudi o tem, kako menedžerji – med njimi diplomantke in diplomanti mednarodnih odnosov – v poplavi informacij prepoznajo dejstva, potrebna za reševanje problemov. Gostje iz gospodarstva bodo z udeleženci delili svoje izkušnje o tem, kako se mednarodni menedžerji in njihove multinacionalke učijo in razvijajo znanje, kako ohranjajo in razvijajo talente, pa tudi svoja priporočila za uspešno pripravo na mednarodni poslovni svet za učitelje in študente. Pridružite se nam.

Warming-up event of the conference

Opportunities and Threats in Contemporary International Business

Date and venue: Thursday, 7 October 2021, 17:00–19:00 CEST, Grand Hall of the Faculty of Social Sciences (University of Ljubljana) and online (<https://uni-lj-si.zoom.us/j/98962897784>)

Ideas and ambitions for business careers appear relatively rarely among International Relations (IR) students in their early plans during undergraduate studies. However, their proficient knowledge of foreign languages, a good understanding of the international business (IB) environment as well as ability to recognize and address the changes and risks of global operation often lead them to work in international business after graduation.

Having acquired extensive knowledge and experience in IB practice, they often return to our lecture rooms, where they share their expertise with the new generations of students in IB classes. In recent years, we have captured some of their success stories (along with the lessons learned along the way) in video cases. These are shared internationally as part of the digital library of video cases on international business called »MNC Whispering« that has resulted from the Erasmus+ VCL4IB project. As case-based learning is one of the key teaching approaches in IB (as well as in other courses in our International Relations study programme), we will host our partners at a warming-up panel of the international conference celebrating 60 years of teaching and researching International Relations in Slovenia titled “Six Decades of the Past, Six Decades for the Future«, where they will share their practical experience in IB.

The panelists will discuss the most recent risks and opportunities in the rapidly changing international business environment, such as those related to the Covid-19 pandemic and the rise of fake news. They will also share their experience of how MNEs and their managers learn and develop knowledge as well as how they attract, develop and retain talents. The discussion, which will begin with a welcoming address by the Programme Chair of the conference Professor Zlatko Šabič, will also focus on the value of case-based learning for IB problem-solving. The guests will thereby offer recommendations for teachers and students wishing to pursue an IB career path in terms of knowledge and skill development. You are kindly invited to join the discussion.
